

Craig Nathanson - The Vocational Coach™

The Vocational Coach™ and author of “Don’t Just Retire and die: A new Approach to your work and life after 40” and “P is for Perfect: Your Perfect

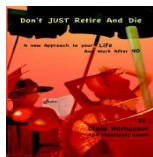

Craig specializes in helping adults in mid-life discover and live their vocational passion. Craig believes that "The world works a little better when we do what we love."

Customer Comments:

"Craig is a genius at helping people to clarify what they want to do with their work lives, and get on with it. He has been there. His vast corporate experience, understanding of human development, and faith in possibilities – fired by his own personal journey – motivate and support people to realize that they can, indeed, have it all: true happiness and success in all facets of life."
- Dr. Serena Williamson, Canada, The Book Coach

"Craig combines intellect, creativity, caring for people, research, and humor in a unique synthesis that makes a positive, special, and inspiring difference to all those with whom he works."
- Dr. Jeremy J. Shapiro, New York City, professor and author, "Mindful Inquiry"
